PLU Chemistry Major Earns Fulbright Scholarship

When Dennis Nichols was five years old, he was telling anyone who would listen that he wanted to be a brain surgeon when he grew up.

Seventeen years later the Spokane native's goal has changed little. He looks forward to an eventual career as a trauma surgeon.

But first Nichols will spend a year in Germany as a Fulbright Scholar. He is the 13th Pacific Lutheran University graduate to receive a Fulbright in the past 12 years, but the first from the natural sciences.

"It is more difficult for science students to receive those stipends because there must be provision made for lab space and instrument time," Nichols explained. Students in the humanities do much of their research in libraries.

The PLU chemistry major will study at the University of Karlsruhe with Swiss-trained chemist Janos Retey. His research will involve biophysical chemistry of membrane protiens, which he believes benefits both his own career and his chosen profession because it has many applications to medicine.

Following his Fulbright year, Nichols has been invited to work with a pathophysiologist at Uniformed Services, University of Health Services in Bethesda, Md.

Nichols is quick to eshew personal credit for his accomplishments. "Don't look at the clay, look at the Potter," he suggested.

"The Lord gives us all potential," he added. "It is our responsibility to develop that potential."

He believes he can be an effective witness as a surgeon. "People requiring trauma surgery are in great need," he said.

The son of Darrell and Bernice Nichols, 212 W. Dawn in Spokane, expects that at some point in his career he will be drawn to the mission field.

Deadline For $3 Million Arts Scholarship

Seattle, WA -- It isn't a lottery, but it may just be the best opportunity high school seniors have to qualify for more than $3 million in arts scholarships.

Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Seattle is urging all professionally oriented 17 and 19 year old art students to register now for the 1986-1987 Arts Recognition and Talent Search (ARTS). Spring registration for ARTS '86 closes on May 15; late applications will be accepted until October 1, 1986.

Supported in part by Pepsi-Cola USA and its local bottlers, and sponsored by the National Foundation for Advancement in the Arts (NFAA), ARTS offers students $3 million in career and scholarship opportunities and a total of $400,000 in cash awards. In addition, ARTS applicants are often recruited by and receive offers of financial aid from top colleges and universities across the country.

Dancers, singers, musicians, actors, writers and visual artists are encouraged to apply. Examples of their work will be evaluated by top professionals in their fields, and aproximately 500 awardees across the country will be selected. From this group, 20 will be singled out as Presidential Scholars in the Arts, the nation's highest distinction for high school seniors.

To apply for the scholarship, write ARTS, 300 N.E. Second Avenue, Miami, Florida 33132, (305) 347-3416.

NFAA is a private non-profit organization which aims to further educational and performance opportunities for young artists. Pepsi-Cola USA and Pepsi-Cola Bottlers are assisting the NFAA in a national public information program encouraging young artists to pursue studies in the arts and rewarding those who have mastered their craft.

THE POLITICAL SUMMIT

TOKYO, Leaders of major industrial democracies, ending their 12th annual gathering Tuesday night, expressed satisfaction that they had confronted terrorism while taking important economic steps toward new trade talks and a revamping of the world monetary system.

Britain's Prime Minister, Margaret Thatcher, declared, "Mission accomplished." Treasury Secretary James A. Baker 3d said, "It was a smooth summit." Chancellor Helmut Kohl of West Germany proclaimed, "We were able to achieve good results."

The meeting ended with a lavish formal dinner in the banquet hall of the Imperial Palace, where Emperor Hilrohito greeted the visiting dignitaries. For many of the leaders, it was their first opportunity to meet his oldest son, Crown Prince Akihito. The occasion gave the Japenese, too, a rare glimpse inside the Imperial Palace.

President Reagan's top aides declared that his Administration was coming away from the summit conference with real accomplishments, including a statement of unity against terrorism that singled out Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi's Libya "in particular." The consensus on that previously divisive issue sounded a note of collegiality among the seven nations.

But terrorism intruded Sunday when five homemade rockets were fired at Japan's state guest house where leaders of the economic meeting were welcomed. No one was injured by the small explosives.

The Reagan aides were pleased by the Tokyo meeting's acceptance of two key issues: Mr. Baker's plan to try to stabilize currency rates through a system of economic checks and balances and an agreement to begin preliminary talks in September aimed at lowering barriers to trade.

But the nations represented here - the United States, Japan, West Germany, Britain, France, Italy and Canada - failed to come to grips with the divisive issue of farm export subsidies.

Words Of Wisdom

WHO HATH BELIEVED OUR REPORT? AND TO WHOM IS THE ARM OF THE LORD REVEALED?

FOR HE SHALL GROW UP BEFORE HIM AS A ROOT OUT OF THE GROUND.

HE HATH NO FORM OR COMILINESS: AND WHEN WE SHALL SEE HIM, THERE IS NO BEAUTY THAT WE SHOULD DESIRE HIM

DEUTERONOMY 31

And Moses went and spake these words unto all Israel.

And he said unto them, I am an hundred and twenty years old this day; I can no more go out and come in: also the Lord hath said unto me, Thou shalt not go over this Jordan.

The Lord thy God, he will go over before thee, and he will destroy these nations from before thee, and thou shalt possess them: and Joshua, he shall go over before thee, as the Lord hath said.

And the Lord shall do unto them as he did to Sihon and to Og, kings of the Amorites, and unto the land of them, whom he destroyed.

And the Lord shall give them up before your face, that ye may do unto them according unto all the commandments which I have commanded you.

Be strong and of a good courage, fear not, nor be afraid of them: for the Lord thy God, he it is that doth go with thee; he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.

And Moses called unto Joshua, and said unto him in the sight of all Israel, Be strong and of a good courage: for thou must go with this people unto the land which the Lord hath sworn unto their fathers to give them; and thou shalt cause them to inherit it.

And the Lord, he it is that doth go before thee; he will be with thee, he will not fail thee; neither forsake thee: fear not, neither be dismayed.

And Moses wrote this law, and delivered it unto the priests the sons of Levi, which bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, and unto all the elders of Israel.

And Moses commanded them, saying, At the end of every seven years, in the solemnity of the year of release, in the feast of tabernacles,

When all Israel is come to appear before the Lord thy God in the place which he shall choose, thou shalt read this law before all Israel in their hearing.

Gather the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy stranger that is within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, and fear the Lord your God, and observe to do all the words of this law:

And that their children, which have not known any thing, may hear, and learn to fear the Lord your God, as long as ye live in the land whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.

And the Lord said unto Moses, Behold, thy days approach that thou must die: call Joshua, and present yourselves in the tabernacle of the congregation, that I may give him a charge. And Moses and Joshua went, and presented themselves in the tabernacle of the congregation.

And the Lord appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of a cloud: and the pillar of the cloud stood over the door of the tabernacle.

And the Lord said unto Moses, Behold, thou shalt sleep with thy fathers; and this people will rise up, and go a whoring after the gods of the strangers of the land, whither they go to be among them, and will forsake me, and break my covenant which I have made with them.

Then my anger shall be kindled against them in that day, and I will forsake them, and I will hide my face from them, and they shall be devoured, and many evils and troubles shall befall them; so that they will say in that day, Are not these evils come upon us, because our God is not among us?

And I will surely hide my face in that day for all the evils which they shall have wrought, in that they are turned unto other gods.

Now therefore write ye this song for you, and teach it the children of Israel:

From the Desk of The Publisher, Apostle Bishop D.L. Brooks.

Workshop Series On Education For Handicapped Children

The Washington Association for Children with Learning Disabilities is presenting a series of seminars celebrating the 10th Anniversary of the passage of the Education of All Handicapped Children Act.

This law, signed by President Ford, assured free, appropriate public education for all children who have handicaps. It is estimated that 16 percent of all school children have learning disabilities.

The workshops will address different aspects of educating learning disabled children: how these children are found and diagnosed, how their rights are implemented, and how well education prepares them for adult life.

The workshop series will begin May 14, 7-9 p.m. in Seattle, and continue each Wednesday for four consecutive weeks.

LOCATION: Seattle Tower, Room 1207, 1218 3rd Ave., Seattle, WA.

New Adult Basic Education Collection At Library

According to Jonathan Kozol, author of ILLETERATE AMERICA, 25 million American adults cannot read the fron page of the newspaper or a letter from their child's teacher. another 35 million are only able to read and write at a level that permits them basic survival in America. Children learn to read and write English in school, however only limited avenues are available to functionally and marginally illiterate adults to acquire and improve their basic reading and writing skills. The need to write and read in English is a necessity in our society and the inability to do so effectively restricts illiterate native-born and foreign born Americans from enjoying many of the opportunities most Americans enjoy.

The national problem is growing and becoming more acute as Southeast Asian and Central American immigrants continue to settle in the Western United States.

The Tacoma Public Library has establis ed a unique collection of materials designed to increase the opportunities for literacy for those without basic reading and writing skills. The adult Basic Education Collection consists of materials prepared expressly for adults with first to fifth grade reading levels abilities. the materials are placed in the Adult Section of the following libraries.

Main Library, 1102 Tacoma Ave. So.; Moore Branch Library, 215 South 56 St.; Mottet Branch Library, 3523 Est G. Street.

Pantages To Host $4 Million Oriental Rug Auction

Delivered straight to the Pantages from Boghosian's San Francisco warehouse, the collection of more than 700 rugs will be auctioned at wholesale prices or lower, Boghosian said He added that while the appraised values of the rugs may start at $99, the selling prices could turn out to be much less.

ECCLESIASTES 2:1-

I said in mine heart, Go to now, I will prove thee with mirth, therefore enjoy pleasure: and behold, this also is vanity.

I said of laughter, It is mad: and of mirth, What doeth it?

I sought in mine heart to give myself unto wine, yet acquanting mine heart with wisdom; and to lay hold on folly, till I might see what was that good for the sons of men, which they should do under the heaven all the days of their life.

I made me great works; I builded me houses; I planted me vineyards:

I made me gardens and orchards, and I planted trees in them of all kind of fruits:

I made me pools of water, to water therewith the wood that bringeth forth trees:

I got me servants and maidens, and had servants born in my house; also I had great possessions of great and small cattle above all that were in Jerusalem before me:

I gathered me also silver and gold, and the peculiar treasure of kings and of the provinces: I gat me men singers, and the delights of the sons of the sons of men, as musical instruments, and that of all sorts.

So I was great, and increased more than all that were before me in Jerusalem: also my wisdom remained with me.

And whatsoever mine eyes desired I kept not from them, I withheld not my heart from any

Stefan Minde Named Assistant Conductor Of The Ring

Stefan Minde, the conductor of Seattle Opera's recent performances of Salome, has been named Assistant Conductor for the company's two cycles of Wangner's Der Ring des Nibelungen this summer.

The Leipzig-born conductor, who served as General Director of the Portland Opera from 1970 to 1970 to 1984, led the Ring in Germany before his immigration to the U.S. and, in Portland, he led a production of Die Walkure in 1981. Among the many operas he conducted at the Portland Opera were the world primiere of Bernard Hermann's Wuthering Heights, a new production of Menotti's The Consul, directed by the composer, and a new production of Lohengrin staged by the composer's great-grandson, Rolf-Siegfried Wagner.

Maestro Minde received plaudits for his recent Salome with Seattle Opera. The Seattle Times said, "And in the orchestra pit, there was Stefan Minde, presiding with his usual mastery of all things Strauss and Wagner. The orchestra sounded spendid in the gorgeous, bizarre score; Minde knows how to pay attention or orchestral details and balances without ignoring the singers." And the Post-Intelligencer, "Like some of the great German conductors in the early part of this century, Minde never lets the line sag ..Rather, the line is given a means of expression that is powerful at all moments, large and small."

Minde will lead some rehearsals of the Ring this summer and will serve as an assistant to Manuel Rosenthal, the conductor of the new production.

Performances take place August 2 to 7 and 10 to 15. Tickets are available at Seattle Opera, 443-3503, or toll-free, at 1-800-426-1615.

Traffic Fines To Hit Pocketbooks Harder

In May, traffic fines will hit pocket books harder than they did last month because of a new law which went into effect at midnight, April 30. Here are some examples:

A driver stopped in April for defective equipment would have paid $40; May 1, it went up to $47.

You were doing 45 in a 40 mph zone. April 30 the fine was $32, but midnight it went up to $38.

Students Wishing To Take Drivers Education, Sign Up Soon

Students wishing to take driver education in Tacoma this smmer may register for the course between the hours of 2:30 and 4 p.m. May 28-29, at Lincoln, Mt. Tahoma, Stadium and Wilson High Schools. A valid Washington State instruction permit and the $65 fee are required at the time of registration.

Classes will begin June 16 and continue through July 29. Sessions will be held during the morning and afternoon hours Monday-Thursday with driving and simulation experience scheduled on an individual basis. For more information, call the traffic safety education office, 593-6697.

Crimestoppers

Crime Stoppers will pay up to $1000 reward this week for information leading to an arrest and charges filed in the following crime:

At 2:14 AM, Monday morning, the 28th of April, 1986, unknown suspects broke out the door glass at Brodsky's Men's wear and Uniforms at 1202 Pacific Ave.

The Suspects entered the business through the broken door and went directly to a glass display case at the rear of the store. There they removed two handguns from inside the case, then fled from the business.

A responding police K-9 unit was able to track a scent to the area of 12th & Commerce Street. However no apprehension was made.

Tacoma Police Detectives are requesting assistance as to the identity of the suspects in this crime.

Anyone with information in this case should call Crime Stoppers at 591-5959. Callers need not give their names and all calls are kept strictly confidential.

Crime Stoppers also pays cash rewards for information that leads to an arrest and charges filed in any felony crime.

Traffic Fines

You were stopped on a negligent driving charge. The fine was $108 in April; in May it's $129.

The increases are the result of a bill passed in the last session of the Legislature which puts an 18 percent surcharge on all trafic infractions and misdemeanors.

The additional money was needed to cover $5 million of an $8 million revenue shortfall that hit the state's Public Safety and Education Account this biennium. That shortfall forced affected agencies to slash their budgets. Example: The Office of the Administrator for the Courts (OAC) reduced its biennial budget by $1.1 million.

Free Energy Information Classes

The Tacoma-Pierce County Energy Information Center will present a free class "Heat Recovery Ventilation--Air-To-Air Heat Exchangers". The class will begin at 7:00 p.m., Wednesday, May 21, at the Puyallup Public Library, 324 South Meridian, Puyallup.

Along with added levels of insulation, tightening up a house by reducing the air lekage is the key to super energy efficiency. Heat recovery ventilation allows you to have your cake and eat it too--energy efficiency and fresh air for ventlation. Topics of discussion will be: different strategies for heat recovery ventilation, proper design, sizing, and installation of air-to-air heat exchangers.

Cosponsored by the Puyallup Public Library, the Tacoma-Pierce County Energy Information Center, and Puget Power. For more information, call the Center at 591-7781.

The Tacoma-Pierce County Energy Information Center will present a free "Tour Of A Super Good Cents Home Featuring An All Wood Foundation". The tour will be held on Saturday, May 17, from 12:00 noon to 2:30 p.m. at 1348 North Juniper, Tacoma (by the Narrows Bridge).

The public is invited to attend this conservation home tour on Saturday May 17th. A technical presentation by the home designer will be made at 12:30 p.m. This home features an open concept modification to a traditional design. The home will be partially constructed (pre-insulation) so that the attendees will be able to view the construction details. An enclosed courtyard, vaulted ceilings, an APA all wood foundation, and Super Good Cents features--the Advanced Drywall Approach, an air-to-air heat exchanger, and low emissivity windows are included. This is not one to miss. For more information, call the Tacoma-Pierce County Energy Information Center at 591-7781.

The Tacoma-Pierce County Energy Information Center will present a free class "Superinsulation And The Advanced Drywall Approach". The class will begin at 7:00 p.m., Wednesday, May 14, at the Tacoma Community College, 5900 South 12th, Building 14, Room 10, Tacoma.

Appropriate levels of insulation, energy efficient windows and doors, tight construction using the Advanced Drywall Approach (ADA), and heat recovery ventilation result in homes that are more comfortable, better ventilated, quieter, and more energy efficient than most existing homes. For more information, call the Energy Information at 591-7781.

Experts To Examine Two Aspects Of Aids

Public anxiety and the search for a medical treatment for Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) will be the focus of a very special City Club luncheon meeting, noon, May 21 at the Sheraton Tacoma Hotel. Guest speakers will be Dr. James Swick, Ph.D., Superintendent of the Issaquah School District, and Dr. Alan Tice, M.D., Tacoma physician and member of the Washington State Medical Association's AIDS Task Force.

Swick experienced the powerful emotions and public anxiety connected with the AIDS problem first hand during recent debate as the Issaquah School Board developed a policy regarding any student who might be stricken with AIDS. A school principal and classroom teacher, Swick nas been Superintendent of Issaquah Public Schools since 1983.

Tice, a Tacoma Physician specializing in infectious disease, will discuss current medical research on combatting the disease. Affiliated with St. Joseph, Tacoma General, Humana and other hospitals, he has gained national respect for his work on the AIDS problem.

The meeting is open to the public. Reservations for club members may be made by sending $8 payable to City Club, P.O. Box 920, Tacoma, WA 98401, or by calling 272-9561 and paying $9 at the door. There is a $3 surcharge for non-members. Reservations are required and must be received by noon May 19.

The Hidden Messages

Some of the most hateful mail that I have ever received is coming from Black women who feel I am insecure because I do not like "The Color Purple." If my manhood were intact, one asserted, I would approve of the way Black men are portrayed. After all, Black men are brutal and insensitive and Steven Spielberg has put the truth on the screen.

Of course, my manhood would be secure if I were to accept the movie's assertion that Black men rape their daughters, then sell the babies. In between, of course, they beat their women senseless. While maintaining this movie is mere entertainment, these angry women blame me for not being entertained at my (Black people's) expense. Black women are not safe in a family with Black men is the message.

James E. Jackson explains this phenemenon another way: "...("Purples") 'womanish' quest deepens the wounds of equally oppressed Black men, diverts the focus from the true oppressor of its victim."

When I finally saw the movie (to quiet my critics who insisted I make Spielberg $6 richer), I saw how clever the subliminal messages were. For example, when Celie and Shug found the hidden letters, the first thing you saw was nude pictures of White women.

When one of the children had her hair combed, it hurt. Black hair is inferior, therefore it hurts. At Harpo and Sophia's wedding they did not kiss; a confrontation between Mr. and three women was emphasized instead. Black men and Black women have a genetic dislike for one another, it said.

The most cruel message of all was that Celie (Whoopi Goldberg) was ugly. She said she was ugly, and kept her hands in her face for two hours to prove it. Her lesbian lover, Shug, said she was ugly. Her Black-man villian and source of pain, Mr., said she was ugly.

In the "Wizard of Oz" ending Celie's two adult African-reared children appeared in their beautiful, flowing African regalia, speaking an African language.

They looked exactly like Celie. The symbols of the mind had you subliminally switching from "ugly" Celie to her ugly (African) offsprings. Africans are ugly was the "Purple" message.

I look like Caren Johnson (now Whoopi Goldberg and Celie in the movie). I'm lighter in skin tone, but I possess her prominent nose.

If she's ugly, I'm ugly. And I'm not ugly, I'm African.

If I were to accept the Black men in "Purple" as legitimate, I would have to accept everything that goes along with it: the "beautiful" White women, the ugly Black women (with the exception of Shug who has a Caucausian nose), the "bad" hair and the God-given lust and hatred that Black men bear for their women.

Job Service Information

State of Washington Employment Security Department

By Commissioner Isiah Turner

If you're an unemployed Washington resident between 18 and 25, and you're looking for a positive working and learning experience, then the Washington Service Corps might just be the program for you.

Enacted by the Legislature in 1983, the Service Corps can give you a six month employment experience while providing a community service. Going out into the community and providing the services that are needed - that's what the Service Corps is all about. It's for those people who want to improve the quality of life for everyone in their community.

You won't get rich serving in the Corps, but you will do well make ends meet on your monthly stipend of $450.00 and medical benefits. The key is that you'll learn new skills, and receive work and training experience that will prove extremely valuable to your future, personally and professionally. What's more, it might help you decide what you want to do with the rest of your life.

Your assignment in the Corps might find you working with the poor, the handicapped, or the elderly. You might perform a research project, work in a counseling center, provide information and referral services, or care for the sick. You could be working for any one of serveral hundred private or public nonprofit organizations that have submitted project proposals addressing community needs which are presently going unmet.

One such project currently happening in Seattle is through the Central Area Motivation Program, where four Corps enrollees are working to provide minor home repair and weatherization for low income, elderly and disabled homeowners in distressed areas. While providing this valuable service, the enrollees are receiving experience in plumbing, carpentry, and minor electrical work which can lead to future employment in these trades.

Another project is the Central Area Chamber of Commerce's "Neighborhood Pride Project," which is a cooperative effort with the City of Seattle. Here, two enrollees are working to ring together central area businesses and residents in a joint clean-up effort in five targeted areas. The Corps members coordinate and oversee local area youth performing the clean-up work, and also tend to administrative and supervisory duties.

I really believe that the Washington Service Corps is prvilege extended to those few young adults who are dedicated to helping others and serving their community. You'll be given responsibility like never before and the pay is a mere pittance. But the work experience and skills you will gain are priceless.

So if the Service Corps describes you, call or drop by your nearest Employment Security Job Service Center and talk to one of our Interviewers. They'll fill you in on how you can receive what I know will be one of your most rewarding experiences in helping others, while helping yourself become a better individual.

Falling Interest Rates And Your IRA: What To Do?

If you just got your 1985 IRA contribution in under the April 15 wire, you may be in a self-congratulatory mood. Maybe you even did what you said you were going to do for years -- made this year's contribution as well, instead of waiting until the last minute next year. If you've made your 1986 contribution (or if you do so soon), pat yourself on the back for getting an "extra" year of tax-deferred earnings.

Although you may be tired of thinking about your IRA by now, don't forget about it just yet. There's one more thing to do: Take a close look at where your money is invested.

If you're one of the many investors who have all or most of their IRA in a money-market fund, you probably should re-think your investment strategy. First of all, a money-market fund is a very short-term investment vehicle, and an IRA is a very long-term investment. Second, money funds are a particularly poor choice in a period of declining interest rates, such as we are experiencing today.

A money fund invests in high-quality financial instruments with maturities of nine months or less, such as Treasury blls, commercial paper and negotiable bank CDs. Some money-market funds also invest in very short-term repurchase agreements collateralized by government securities.

Because the securities in a money fund have maturities of only a few weeks or months, they must be continually rolled over into new securities purchased at current short-term interest rates. Thus, a money fund's yield quickly reflects rising or falling rates. Currently, that means money fund yields are steadily moving downward.

Because it is so liquid, a money fund functions best as a "parking place" for money you may need on short notice. Indeed, money funds are where many people keep their family's emergency cash reserve. And many investors routinely put their proceeds from stock and bond sales into a money fund while they decide where to invest the money next. In exchange for liquidity, people are willing to accept a relatively low rate of return.

Since you're unlikely to take money out of your IRA until you retire, you don't have a pressing need for liquidity and shouldn't forfeit return for it.

The best way to make sure your money is working as hard as possible for you all the time is to set up a self-directed IRA at a brokerage firm. Then, with the help of an experienced Financial Consultant, you can custom-tailor your portfolio from a wide array of high-yielding and growth-oriented investments.

Some of the higher-yielding alternatives to money funds you might select are zero-coupon Treasury and corporate bonds, unit trusts composed of fixed portfolios of government bonds, medium-and long-term bond mutual funds, and income-oriented equity mutual funds. If you are more interested in capital growth than current yield, you can invest in one or more stock mutual funds.

Finally, if you are keeping your IRA money in a money fund to stay flexible in case interest rates begin to rise, you still have a better alternative: Buy a six-month insured CD from your brokerage firm and earn more than you'd get in a money fund. By buying the CD within your IRA brokerage account, you'll be able to shift quickly into other investments if interest rates start climbing later this year.

Tacoma's Black Youth Have Had Their Share Of Media Coverage

Tacoma Black youth have had their share of coverage recently. Three times in the month, the News Tribune has published articles concerning them. Good? Bad? Who knows! April 3, Tacoma City Council in conjunction with the Tacoma School District appoints a Blue Ribbon Commission to study what they seem to be racial tensions, that has its roots in a few isolated incidents between Black and Asian teenagers. Talking to several Black youth, they seem to be unaware of the charge other than the common prejudices among different groups in and out of school.

April 19, headline reads Test Scores Worry Blacks. Shouldn't the School District have worried enough to address the issue, publicly before now? The condition has been evident for quite some time. I know of two mothers of Black students who have consistently stated their concerns to School officials to no avail. However, now, with the help of the Black Collectives and others, let's hope that their persistence has not been in vain.

April 20, headline reads Volunteer Group Striving for Better Scores for Blacks. On the surface, the idea of a Commission on the "tension" thing sounds good providing the Black youth is not made the scapegoat. The partnership between the School District, Black leaders and parents sounds good, also. But please, do not let it get to a cop-out point and the whole monkey put on the parents back. The District and the leaders have a larger part to play. They must take up a gauntlet.

Senate Approves Bryan For Judgeship

Gortan/Evans say: "He'll be another great judge."

Only the official swearing-in ceremony now stands between Bremerton attorney Robert J. Bryan and his new seat on the western Washington federal district court bench. That ceremony, expected to take place sometime in the next several weeks, became possible when the U.S. Senate gave its final approval to the nomination of the former Kitsap County Superior Court Judge to fill a new federal court seat in Tacoma. Bryan had been recommended for the position more than a year ago by Washington Senators Slade Gorton and Daniel J. Evans.

In 1984, Congress created sixty-one new district court judgeships nationwide. Three of those were allocated to Washington state. Two were to be located in western Washington and one in the eastern part of the state. It was later decided that the new judges would sit in Seattle, Spokane and Tacoma.

Former State Supreme Court Justice Carolyn Dimmick was chosen for the Seattle seat, and Yakima attorney Alan A. McDonald to fill the new Spokane judicial position. Bryan will occupy the last of those newly created seats.

Beginning in 1959, Bryan practiced general civil law in Bremerton. In 1967, he was appointed to a seat on the state Superior Court by then-Gov. Dan Evans. Bryan was re-elected to that position in 1968, 1972, 1976, and 1980. He voluntarily stepped down at the end of his last term in 1984.

Since then, he has been a practicing attorney in the Seattle law firm of Riddell, Williams, Bullitt and Walkinshaw. Gorton said Bryan's new federal judgeship in Tacoma will help relieve some of the caseload pressure from federal Judge Jack Tanner.

"Judge Bryan will be a superb federal judge and a welcome addition to the district court bench in Tacoma," Gorton said today. "He is extremely intelligent, has demonstrated the highest ethical standards, and has achieved a remarkable professional reputation. He is a welcome and needed addition to our federal bench in Washington state."

Evans said, "Bob Bryan is the third of three outstanding legal minds that Senator Gorton and I found and convinced to serve the people of Washington state. Bob is an eminent lawyer and citizen who has won Senate confirmation for this distinguished position. He will be a significant asset for the federal bench in Tacoma."

Judge Dimmick was re-elected in 1984 to her seat on the state Supreme Court that she had held since being appointed to that post in 1980. The first woman to serve on the state's highest court, she had been a King County District and Superior Court judge for 15 years. Dimmick was confirmed by the Senate on April 3, 1985 for her new Seattle-based judgeship. She is 57 and lives on Bainbridge Island.

McDonald, 59, is a 1952 law graduate of the University of Washington. While there, he served on the UW Law Review. He was admitted to the state bar in 1952, and served as a Deputy Prosecuting attorney in Yakima County from 1952-1954. He won Seante confirmation on Oct. 16, 1985, and assumed the new eastern Washington judgeship in Spokane on Nov. 4.

He is a member of the Washington State and American Bar Associations, and is a Fellow with the American College of Trial Lawyers. Until his Senate confirmation laster year, McDonald had been a practicing attorney with the Yakima law firm of Halverson, Applegate and McDonald.

The state will now be served by ten federal district judges. Five will sit in Seattle, three in Spokane, and two in Tacoma. Federal Judge Donald Voorhees recently announced that he intends to "take senior status" (partial retirement), which creates a new vacancy on the federal District court. Gorton and Evans have recommended Seattle attorney William L. Dwyer to replace Voorhees. That recommendation is pending within the U.S. Justice Department.

From now through June 15, grocers will feature certain products will be easily identified in the stores by the poster child logo near the product display, and in the grocers weekly food advertising.

Safeway, Albertson's, QFC, Shop-Right, Piggly Wiggly, and stores serviced by Associated Grocers have all pledged their hardy support for this program.

Shoppers interested in saving money and saving babies should look for the March of Dimes poster child logo the next time they visit their neighboring grocery store.

Youngsters May Soon Pre-Register For Kindergarten

Youngsters who will be five years of age on or before Aug. 31 may pre-register for kindergarten classes May 14-15 at all Tacoma elementary schools. Proof of age and the child's immunization record are required by the school district. Birth certificates or other reasonable proof will be adequate, school officials say.

Children with last names beginning with A through K should register at their neighborhood elementary school from 1 to 3 p.m. May 14. Those with names beginning L through Z should register from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. May 15. School nurses at many elementary schools will be conducting vision and hearing clinics on both dates.

Donna Gamble, coordinator of the district's health progra, reminds parents of the importance of making sure their child has the proper immunization. "Most of the children found out of compliance this year were in kindergarten," she says, noting that the Washington State Board of Health requires that every child be immunized against tentanus, diptheria, polio, measles, mumps, pertussis, and rubella before entering school.

Readiness kindergarten centers are available to children who are five years old but who could use an extra year in a kindergarten setting. These centers offer a youngster daily skill-building exercises in following directions; workng together and independently; gaining a positive self-concept; and developing language, basic concepts, and other skills. Enrollment in a readiness kindergarten center is done through neighborhood elementary schools.

Tacoma is one of the few major school districts in the state and nation offering students a choice in the school they attend. This means parents have the option to enroll their children in any school in the district provided the number of optional enrollment requests does not exceed the maximum student capacity for the building and a racial balance is maintained. Parents who want their child to attend a school outside their neighborhood should contact the school principal in their attendance area and request optional enrollment information.
